This is the artist's first major exhibition in many years and features painting, sculpture, etching and woodcuts from time spent in Canada, Mallorca and Oxfordshire.

'Throughout my working career, even while running a business, I have continually focused only on the things which interest me, and in my most recent canvases I have tried pushing the human physical form in different ways, with paintings of pregnant women and wheelchair-bound people, exploring the bodily difficulties that confront many.'

Sculpture '1932 Onwards' metal, resin, fibreglass, paint
