

THE STOUR GALLERY SPRING EXHIBITION

JESSICA COOPER RWA

Life Without Words - New Paintings - April 2012

Jessica Cooper RWA -

unfolding lily

75 x 80cm

Jessica Cooper's paintings are caught in time and circumstance, with a clarity of observation and mark making that create their own ambiguity. Making connections, emotions evolving and revolving, the paintings are caught in time, place and circumstance. Her subjects are the familiar that anchor her in her life; isolated on canvas, we reappraise and interpret them through our own daily lives. We feel we know them, as indeed we do; they are part of the shared human experience.

A sense of place, a sense of self, and a sense of the pathos of the house, the tree, the cup, flower or fruit, are the communicating elements of Jessica Cooper's work; that these objects and landscapes cannot know the emotional response they trigger in us; the moment caught and held by the paintbrush and pencil; and underpinning and supporting the emotional communication, a strongly intuitive but academic understanding of area, colour, form and tone. In many ways visual poetry of the sparest and most affecting kind.

Sarah Stoten, gallery director

Jessica Cooper was elected a Royal West of England Academician in 2007. She was on the Council of Management of Newlyn Art Gallery Cornwall 2006-2008 and from 1995 has been a painting member of The Newlyn Society of Artists as well as a mentor of The Tate St Ives Graduate Mentoring Scheme. She won the RWA highly Commended Award and the Drawing Quarters Award from the University of the West of England in 2005. In 2007 her work was selected for the Tate St Ives prestigious exhibition Art Now Cornwall.

The exhibition includes stoneware and porcelain ceramics by leading potters working in Denmark:

Anne Fløche . Priscilla Mouritzen . Hans Vangsø

Priscilla Mouritzen

Anne Fløche's stoneware is freely expressive, with a bold and broad definition of form, depth and texture of glaze and an economic brush. Her crawling pigments and lyrically abstracted motifs enrich the poetic charge of her pots and reveal a sensitive, gently humorous eye for the shapes and characters of the natural world.

Hans Vangsø studied at the Jutland Academy of Fine Arts in Denmark. He makes bold woodfired pots, often square vases and large jars. He has exhibited widely in Denmark and Europe, and in 2002 was one of the artists selected for the major touring exhibition From the Kilns of Denmark which travelled to New York, Berlin & Paris.

Priscilla Mouritzen: South African born; Priscilla had a studio in England before moving to Denmark where she has lived and worked since. She makes delicate pinched porcelain bowls with engobe glazes, patterned, textured and woodfired. She has exhibited widely in Europe and is a board member of the Guldagergaard Ceramic Centre, Skælskør and the World Crafts Council Europe.
