

IMPACT ART FAIR - press release

May 2013

Two years ago Annie Morgan's life looked pretty straight forward - a home, ageing parents, a beloved daughter, a job as a TV producer. However, depression isn't interested in 'straight forward' and like 10-16 million other people in Britain a year she was suddenly gripped by its profound effects - so profound that in October 2010 she threw herself under a train.

Annie survived the train but the depression remained. Thankfully for Annie her recovery plan included making art and she was immediately inspired and uplifted. Somehow, making art had a positive impact on her and helped dissolve her depression.

Now an artist, Annie is currently preparing to exhibit at the Impact Art Fair, the UK's first art fair which displays work only by artists who face challenges such as mental ill health, disability or social exclusion. The fair's director, Simon Powell, says "The artists are unsung heroes, doing battles no-one sees. The work they make is unique in its honesty and courage. The artists don't lack talent, they lack opportunities."

Organised by charity Creative Future, the Impact Art Fair will display up to 250 artists across 49 stalls with submissions coming from as far as Germany and the USA. Organisations that use art to help people such as Studio Upstairs, South London and Maudsley (SLaM), Bethlem Gallery, Shape, Other Side Gallery and Outside In will also be taking stalls.

Says talented artist Philip: "I'm on benefits because I suffer from bi-polar disorder. I could never afford the rates normal art fairs charge for a stall. The Impact Art Fair gives me a chance to show my work on a level playing field."

IMPACT ART FAIR - 26th, 27th, 28th July 2013

Open each day 11am-6pm

Admission: £2.00 per person

Address: Block 336, 336 Brixton Road, Lambeth, SW9 7AA.

Preview: 6pm Thursday 25th July 2013

Maudsley Charity
Health in Mind

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

Impact Art Fair is delivered by Creative Future - a registered charity and company limited by guarantee
Charity number: 1132889 Company no: 6891365

IMPACT ART FAIR 2013

The first Impact Art Fair in 2011

*'Hitchcock's Other Birds'
Terence Wilde*

*'One Step at a Time'
Kim Noble*

*'On the Catwalk'
Esther Thomas*

*'Nature'
Russell Jones*

*'Christ on Cross'
Annie Morgan*

Notes to editor

1. Impact Art Fair website <http://www.impact-art-fair.org.uk/index.html>
2. The Impact Art Fair is organised by the Brighton-based charity Creative Future, founded by Simon Powell and Dominique De-Light. The charity uses creativity to help people who face mental ill health, disability or social exclusion. Creative Future run courses, master classes and a mentoring programme. They also organise high-end and off-beat exhibitions, so far seen by tens of thousands.
<http://creativefuture.org.uk/index.html>
3. Studio Upstairs is helping to deliver this years event. Studio Upstairs are based in London and Bristol and provide studio space for people with mental health problems
4. Funds to organise this year's fair have come from the Maudsley Charity and the Arts Council.
5. Annie Morgan has recently featured in the Mail On Sunday (24th March 2013).
<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/home/you/article-2297030/In-2010-plagued-severe-depression-Annie-Morgan-tried-end-life-leaping-train-platform--miraculously-survived.html>
6. This year's selection panel will include:
 - Jennifer Gilbert from Outside In (UK's largest agency for marginalised artists).
<http://www.outsidein.org.uk/>
 - John Maziels, founder of Raw Vision magazine - the world's leading forum for self-taught artists. <http://www.rawvision.com/>
 - Victoria Hume, chair of London Arts and Health Forum <http://www.lahf.org.uk/>
7. The venue: Block 336 is an artist-led gallery and promotes engagement and critical discussion of contemporary art and ideas and, as a not-for-profit organisation, will partner with local charities and other institutions to offer their 'Access to Art' Programme.

Maudsley Charity
Health in Mind

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

Impact Art Fair is delivered by Creative Future - a registered charity and company limited by guarantee
Charity number: 1132889 Company no: 6891365