Brenda Hartill R E is a British painter, collage artist and printmaker. Her work explores the texture, pattern and light of the landscape, and ranges from finely drawn figurative early works to her recent bold, heavily embossed abstract images. For the past 10 years she has been most interested in drawing abstract imagery from the landscape, rugged mountain erosion, structure of the land and the dynamics of plant growth. She loves the strong light and shadow of Southern Europe, and remote New Zealand, as well as the gentler greyness of London and Sussex. She exhibits worldwide and plans a solo show at the Curwen Gallery, London in October.

As part of the South East Open Studios, spend a day in the depths of the Sussex countryside, and visit Brenda and other artists on the Rye and Northium art trail. Lunch in a local pub, or one of the many superb restaurants in Rye, as well as the gardens of Great Dixter, or the beach at Camber Sands.
