‘Discover the skill and beauty of Tibetan Art’

A selection of Tibetan Art, by the Artist Ugyen Choephell, will be on exhibition at 54 The Gallery. Having trained under the late great Thangka masters, Amdo Jamyang and Sangye Yeshe in Mussoorie his artistic journey has taken him from traditional to contemporary taking inspiration from daily life of Tibetan people.

Starting with his first exhibition in Dharamsala in 1997, Ugyen has exhibited at several Tibetan Arts Festivals around the world. On show will be beautiful hand painted Mandalas created using the traditional rules of iconometry. Treated with great care they are used as teachings on Buddhist life and Philosophy and to aid concentration in meditation. In the West, they are becoming popular as unique cultural art collection pieces and decorative wall art.

'Step into Indian history in the heart of London'

The ancient folk art of Mithila Paintings, also known as Madhubani Paintings, will be on exhibition at 54 The Gallery. The subjects of these paintings describe the cultural and historical life of India. The paintings are created with acrylic on handmade paper using fine nibs to create intricate and detailed motifs by traditional Madhubani artists, predominantly women, from Bihar, India. The unique art form is handed down through generations. These Indian paintings have been popular in the USA notably the Ford Foundation which has a strong association with them as well as Japan which set up the Mithila Museum in Tokamachi in the nineties. Art Rickshaw advocates, collects and exhibits Mithila Art in the UK.
